My Experience in the East Teaches me that the principal demand would be for LIGHT LITERATURE, and the Ordinary 3-Volume English Novels would therefore preponderate, at the same time Works of any interest on Science, Biography and Travel would find their place on the Libra: / Shelves.

At "Belle Vue," Kowloon, on the 8th instant the wife of Mr. J. BREWSTER, Army Medical Department, of a Daughter.

HONGKONG, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1883.

Russours were circulating throughout the Colony yesterday, that the steamship Kenmure Castle, of Messes, Thomas Skinner & Sons well-known "Castle" line of steamers, had been wrecked in the Bay of Biscay on her passage from London to China. That these rumours had good foundation, the telegram published in another place amply testifies. It would appear that the ill-lated vessel left London a few days ago laden with a general cargo, including a large quantity of iron, for the Far East, and encountering a heavy gale in the Bay of Biscay foundered, with, it is feared, fatal results. The telegram states that a portion of the crew and passengers were saved, so it is only reasonable to infer that the loss of the Kenmure Castle has, like the wreck of the Fleurs Castle at Cape Gardefui a few months back, been attended with serious loss of life.

In the absence of any particulars, all surmises as to the causes which led to the foundering of the Kenmure Castle can only be regarded as mere speculation. It be correct that the steamer was heavily laden with iron, it is probable enough that in a heavy gale the cargo may have shifted, and thus rendered the vessel an easy prey to the elements. The Kenmure Castle was formerly well known on this coast as the Burmese, and her commander, Captain Luck, had many friends in Hongkong. The extremely bad luck of the "Castle" steamers has of late become proverbial The Braemar Castle, Fleurs Castle and Ken mittere Castle have all been lost within the past two or three years.

TELEGRAMS.

LONDON, February 7th. LOSS OF THE KENMURE CASTLE. The steamer Kenmure Castle foundered during a gale in the Bay of Biscay; a portion of the crew and passengers were saved.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

A HINT for Mr. Coffins. An Australian coffin dealer inscribes the following motto on his caskets : "Let me hide myself in thee."

IT is stated that the Bishop of Metz has declined the decoration of the Iron Cross, accorded to him by the Emperor, because he wishes to keep aloof from all politics.

An American paper says that ladies who wear cockroach ornaments can get at supply in any well-regulated newspaper office. Until fashion stepped in with the information, no editor ever | pore to-day, for this port. knew what cockroaches were for.

BRET HARTE'S first poetic "fragment" com menced in these words:-

"I sipped the nec.ar of her lips; ... I sipped and hovered o'er her;" And the last two lines were as follows: "Her father's boot flashed on the scene—I'm wiser now and sorer."

WE quite endorse the sentiments of the Edito of the Philadelphia News when he says that i is not right to use the obnoxious term, "borr idiot " in speaking of a woman of 40 who left her family and eloped with a youth of 19. It is not right, because it leaves you no epithet sufficiently strong to apply to the young man,

THE Grand Duke Vladimir of Russia, at present in Paris, possesses herculean strength. As at evidence of it, it is related that when he visits one of his intimate friends and does not find him at home, he is accustomed, instead of leaving his card, to leave a piece of silver, which he doubles with his fingers as easily as if it were but a bi of cardboard.

"That's so," remarked the shrewd and matter- for the better. of-fact J: "There's $5000 of mine in it; if there's any way of getting money out of the thing I should like to know it."

An account is given in English journals of the performance of a locomotive on the Great Northern Railroad, which recently carried the Duke of Edinburgh from Leeds to London, 1862 miles, in three hours, or at the rate of 62 miles per hour-This speed has, frequently been equalled, and sometimes surpassed for short distances. The engine had driving-wheels eight feet in diameter.

SARAH Bernhardt-Damala's delicacy of constitu tion, a prominent French manager declares, is much exaggerated in the papers. She is woman of wire, and can endure twice as much fatigue as a woman of apparently twice her strength. One great secret of her power of endurance is the facility with which she can go to sleep. Travelling by day, she merely pulls down the curtains of her compartment and slumbers soundly through the hours of her jour-

WE note that the Directors of the Austrian Kronprinz Rudolt Railway bave been making trials of the electric light upon one of their locomotives. The Schuckert system was adopted in combination with a Brotherhood three-cylinder machine; and a space of 598 square yards on a straight track and 239 square yards on a curve was illuminated. This space is sufficient, and the trials were generally satisfactory, but the cost of establishing the light has so far deterred this company from adopting it upon all its

At last, observes a contemporary, the grand secret has leaked out. We have a balance-sheet of the one hundred thousand dollars raised and spent under what was known at the time as the New York Skirmishing Fund. The first item is one of thirty-six thousand dollars for constructing and superintending a ram. Another pleasing by the time they arrived at Penang. Captain item is one of one thousand three hundred and thirty-one dollars for Mr. O'Donovan Rossa's salary. Mr. James O'Kelly, M.P., received ten thousand dollars, Mr. John Devoy about six thousand, and other "gintlemen" in proportion. No wonder that these persons are anxious to keep the land agitation going. As to the "ram," which was built to work such terrible ruin amongst shipping, that has been sold for old iron. It is probable that even the mad American Fenians have learned just a shade of wisdom by this time, and that we shall hear no more of skirmishing funds.

HAPPILY "our withers are unwrung." The Lastcel utters a note of warning against the use arsenic for the complexion. According to this veracious print, a statement has recently been circulated (and has already done harm) to the effect that arsenic is good for the complexion if taken in small doses. Even if we had any care as to the beauty of our skin we should hesitate before taking arsenic when whisky, or its kindred spirits, will bring about the same result in much more simple and pleasant fashion. As colouring agent for the face—especially for the nose-unsweetened gin, whisky, rum, and brandy can give arsenic, or any other poison, a very long start and a beating. The warning in our case is therefore not wanted. It is still, however, of use, as there are many women in the world foolish enough to swallow anything if they thought they could thereby score a point in front of their neighbours.

SALVING operations in connection with the cargo of the steamer Carisbrooke, are progressing favourably under the direction of Captain Hayden of the Sea Gull, who hopes to soon complete the work.

FROM a London telegram dated the 7th instant we learn that the steamer Kenmure Castle, of the well-known "Castle" line of steamers, has foundered during a gale in the Bay of Biscay. The information to hand is very meagre, the telegram merely stating that a portion of the crew and passengers were saved.

THE Chinese New Year has passed away without noteworthy incident. The "cracker" nuisance was scarcely so great as is usually the case, although the regulations issued by the authorities, restricting this practice to certain hours, evidently inspired a very small amount of respect, judging from the manner in which said regulations were set at defiance throughout the night, and up to a late hour this morning. Sir John Pope Hennessy doubtless had a strong "I TELL you there's lots of money in it," said penchant towards the Chinese; but during his N-, speaking of the splendid chance to make | rule the orders of the government were rigidly that the so-called eruption was nothing more a good thing afforded by a local concern that has | enforced. A CORRESPONDENT of the Detroit Free Press writes:-Among the many ridiculous fashions, none now in vogue is more glaring than wearing ornaments around the hat made to imitate those horrible reptiles-snakes and toads. FROM the report of the steamship Merionethshire. Captain G. W. Read, which arrived here this morning from Singapore, we learn that they picked up a Chinese junk in the Bay of Bengal, with six starving Chinamen on board. The poor wretches had been eight days without food and six without water, and were in a very weak condition. Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting them on board the Merionethshire, owing to the heavy gale which was blowing, the high sea which was running, and the exhausted condition of the poor castaways. We are glad to learn that the whole six were eventually safely got on board and landed at Penang. It is also satisfactory to know that the kind treatment they received completely pulled them round, they being quite well in health Read and all those who aided in rescuing these poor wretches are deserving of high praise for their Christian-like and manly behaviour in saving from a watery grave, at great risk to themselves, this half dozen of mahogany-skinned Chinese sailors.

GEORGE PITCHFORD, 26, of England, seaman

on the American ship Guardian, was up before Mr. Wodehouse this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct yesterday. A seaman of the Audacious named Thomas King, said he was at the London Inn yesterday, and hearing a noise going on outside, he went to the door tosee what was up, and saw four merchant seamen engaged in a "shindy," the prisoner being one of them. Three of the men appeared to be attacking the fourth, Pitchford being one of the attackers. He had the knuckleduster produced on his fingers, and when witness mentioned that the prisoner had a cruet-stand in his hand, a marine, his companion, rushed at Pitchford in order to take him off the man he was attacking, who was on the ground, the prisoner hitting him in the face. After some discussion respecting the even for which the Ladies' Purse would be given as a prize, it was decided, on the suggestion of Mr. Hazeland, to make the much coveted trophy the prize for the 100 yards race. It was also decided that the race for the Ladies' purse should be open and that previous winners should not be penalised. As Mr. Hazeland was the winner of the too yards race at the last annual meeting, and is a good four yards in front of any known form in the Colony over the 100 yards course, it is not very difficult to guess the more than probable destination of the Ladies' Purse. In the quarter mile flat race it was decided to penalise previous winners ten yards, and fifteen yards for having won twice. Mr. Lockhart suggested that a steeplechase be substituted for the obstacle race, and, after some discussion, it was ultimately decided to adopt Mr. Lockhart's suggestion if a suitable course could be laid out. Mr. Foss proposed that there should be no "tug of war" this year, but it was ultimately decided to try and get up an English, Scotch, Irish and German team, it being also decided that the distance for the losers to be pulled be fifteen feet. In dealing with the veterans' race, it was suggested that this race be open to residents of seven years standing, but the old rule, 30 years and over, was adhered to. The officers were then elected, and the following names were added to the Committee :- Messrs. Lockhart, Hodder, R.N., J. J. Bell Irving, V. Smith, and F. A. Hazeland,

HONGKONG C. C. v. OFFICERS OF ARMY AND

This interesting match was played on the Cricket Ground yesterday, and resulted, after a close and exciting game, in the defeat of the Club by four wickets. Both teams were fairly representative ones, but the Club sadly missed the aid of F. H. O. Wilson, and in one or two other instances might have secured stronger champions. The United Services played a powerful eleven; still, their victory, under all the circumstances, must be considered rather a lucky one, and is to be attributed more to the wretched fielding of the Club than to their own superiority with bat or ball, Winning the toss, the Club elected to take first innings, and sent in Travers and St. Croix to face the deliveries of Rice and Wilson. Both batsmen played carefully at first, as the bowling was well on the spot; but after an over or two, Travers could not resist the temptation of letting out, and in quick succession scored a two and a four off Wilson, and a three off Rice, St. Croix after a leash of singles, sending Wilson prettily away for 3. A change of bowling was quickly resorted to, D'Aeth, being deputed to relieve Wilson, and the new bowler's first over proved fatal Leigh, H. St. de Jarret, Sadler, F. Hazeland, and to the Hon. Secretary, who placed one in the Mackean, Secretary. Mr. MacKean, who sure hands of Dauglish, having contributed q out occupied the chair, announced that the funds in of 23. Davies was next man in, but he had a short stay, as in trying to slog an insidious one from Rice he was clean bowled, and two wickets were down for 29 runs. Coxon cemented his partnership with Travers by hitting D'Aeth for a couple, immediately afterwards scoring three off Rice. The total had reached 39, when D'Aeth got one past Travers' bat, and Birch, who followed, had only put together three singles when Wilson, who had resumed at his old end, shot down his stumps. Four for 53. Dobson joined Coxon and a good stand was made, the last named hitting out in grand style, whilst the new comer played with great care. When the telegraph board showed 72, Hodder, who had just been put on to bowl, found his way to Coxon's wicket, the latter retiring for a well played 25, made up of one four, four threes, four twee and a single. Hynes now became Dobson's associate, and quickly showed he was in hitting form, by scoring a brace of threes and a single in rapid succession. Dobson's time had now come, however, the first ball of Lloyd's second over disturbing. the equilibrium of the bails, and six wickets were down for 80 runs. Dobson's 17 included one 5, one 3, &c., and was a very useful innings. Barff and Whyte both failed to stay, and when the Naval Yard veteran was caught by Rice off D'Aeth after putting together 23 in his usual dashing style, the innings was practically at an end, Jones running himself out after scoring a couple. The total, including 8 extras amounted to 111 runs. D'Acth and Lloyd were most effective bowlers for the Services, securing three wickets apiece at a cost of 19 and 23 runs respectively. Rice, Wilson and Hodder took one wicket each, the bowling of the former being rather expensive, no fewer than 36 runs standing to his debit.

With what appeared a very easy task set them, the Army and Navy were first represented at the wickets by Rice and Hodder, Travers and Dobson leading off the attack. The fast bowler's first over was a maiden, and then Rice sent Dobson away for 4 and 3, and in the following over another 3 and a 2 were scored, which led to this trundler's deposition in favor of Barff. Each batsman scored a single off the new bowler's initial essay, but the last ball of the over was cleverly taken in the slips by Travers, and the first wicket was down for 22 runs. Dauglish joined Rice, but the last named was immediately caught by Dobson off Travers for a hard hit thirty-two, and with the addition of two runs to the total. Dauglish was sent back, clean bowled by Travers for a cypher. Wilson also failed to stay, as after driving Barff for 3 and scoring a brace of singles. Travers rattled down his stumps, and D'Aeth who followed was caught by Davies off the same bowler for a single. Three and four for 52; and five for 57. With the exception of Newington, who played in good style for 14, no further stand was made, and the innings closed for 88. which included no fewer than 10 extras. a safe indication of the wretched character of the fielding. Travers took six wickets for 23 Tuns and Barff, who bowled 3 no-balls, three for 18.

With 23 runs to the good, Hynes and Travers commenced the second innings of the Club to the bowling of Rice and Wilson. A bad start was made, Hynes sending Rice's first ball into the safe clutches of "The O'Rafferty," the first wicket thus falling for o. This was only the beginning of a series of disasters, which it would be useless dealing with in detail. Suffice it to say, that with the exception of Coxon (10) and St. Croix (12) no resistance worthy of the name was offered, and the last wicket fell with the total at 18. The wickets fell in the following order :one for o, two and three for 11; four for 17, five for go, six and seven for 48, eight and nine for 56. and ten for 18. Rice was most successful with the ball, his 7 wickets being obtained at a cost of 20 runs. Wilson had a wickets for 20. With 81 to get to win! Rice and Hodder were the first representatives of the Services, Barff and Travers trundling for the Club. The left hander was in his best form, scoring a brace of fours and singles from Travers' first two overs : but with the total at 13, Barff, who had sent down a live couple of maidens, bowled Hodder for a single Dauglish taking the vacant wicket. Rice con-'3rd -- We'are of opinion that the master, More tipued to score at a great rate, punishing Travers so soverely that Hynes was substituted for the judgment in not making the signal of a fire on fast bowler, and itis second over proved fatal to board ship provided by the Harbour Regulations. Dauglish, who had only just broken his duck. Two for 27. Wilson was Rice's next partner, and the play gave every promise of becoming lively, when Hynes disposed of the Commissariat representative by a regular trimmer, the left handed player having contributed 30 out of 36 in dashing style. His score was made up of a brace of fours, five threes, one two and singles: D'Aeth rendered great help in lending their boats for heat went in to assist Wilson, who was slogging with his usual impartiality, and an additional 20 runs were added to the total before the young Naval batsman was clean bowled by Travers, who had just previously resumed at his old end. When the telegraph board showed to up, D'Arth was smartly, caught by Davies off Barff, and at 60 Bunbury sent one into Birch's hands from the same bowler. Twenty two runs were still required with only four wickets to fall and the game became very exciting. Hedley opened his account by driving Barff for 7, and Dormer supplies plemented this by scoring a a and a 2 from one over of Travers! A brace of singles by the Engineer, a 3 by Dormer off Baril, and four extraction quickly settled the matter, the Army and Navy exceeding their opponents total will four with tell still intact. NEWS BY THE AMERICAN MAIL.

The Pacific Mail Company's steamer City of Peking, Captain Berry, with the American mails of the 10th ulto, arrived in harbour this afternoon. We take the following telegraphic items from our San Francisco exchanges :-

EERLIN, January 3rd. Dr. Neumeyer, an eminent physician here, in a public lecture to-night, ascribed Gambetta's death to the incompetency of the doctors attend-

The almost savage satisfaction with which the German press views the death of Gambetta indicates clearly enough how greatly he was feared as a factor in European polities. A similar feeling of relief was openly expressed here over the sudden demise of General Schobeloff last year. Both men had incurred the enmity of Germany, and both of them died at rather critical periods as regarded the political situation. A yet unexplained mystery surrounded both of their deaths. Both, it is suspected, died at the hands of women, and under circumstances which give but faint hopes of a solution of the mystery of their "taking off." At this time, when Germany, believing herself menaced on one side by France and on the other by Russia, is straining her every resource to increase and strengthen her already enormous armaments, the ill-concealed rejoicing shown by editorial comments in German papers on the death of Gambetta is extremely significant, in view of the strained relations now existing between Germany and Russia, and the unceasing military preparations for guarding the frontier. It is believed here that the climination from French politics of the problem of the strongest leader of the Republican party is likely to leave that country with enough factional questions on hand to prevent any possihilley of her interfering in the obviously impend-

MACAO.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.] MACAO, 8th February, 1883.

The long-felt want of journalism in this colony is now admirably supplied by our three local representatives of public opinion: the Macanese, the Independente, and the Correio di Macao. These weekly journals have already done a great deal of good in exposing to the public gaze the seamy side of that peculiar textile fabric called the Government of Macao. They have suggested several important reforms in the administration of the colony; they have demanded in plain language the publication of our exchequer returns and expenditures; they have called the attention of the Surveyor-General's Department to the urgently needed improvements in the harbour; they have appealed to the Lisbon Governmen against the official abuses of various hues that adorn the branches of our executive. In a word our local press has succeeded in tutoring public opinion towards, a just appreciation of the political and financial status of this colony, and its present and future resources; also the necessity of removing the quicksand which has been for ages the only foundation whereon stands its autonomy as a Portuguese Colony.

It is earnestly to be hoped that the above named journals will proceed in the noble path o independence and impartiality which they have marked out for themselves. They have already recently so grossly insulted them and so arbitrarily and illegally threatened to demolish the public press of the colony. Since that memorable occasion the attitude of our three local papers has been justifiably hostile to the policy of the government; and as it is above probability that the same line of policy will be followed by the successors of our present gracious Governor one is probably justified in predicting that our new rulers will not be less mercilessly handled by these protectors of public rights, the newspapers

The geographical position of Macao, its close contact with more civilised colonies and settlements, entitles it'to a closer acquaintance with the foreign press. Our grievances, should not only be exposed here; but they should be made known to the foreign communities at large, or they will never be redressed. Our Lisbon Government is practically shut out of the Eurocommunion of progress and advanced civilisation. The measures adopted by the home government toward the colonies are sometimes so absurd and so retrograde, that the interests of the colonists are often imperilled Under these circumstances it will be interesting to many of your readers, as it is will be advantageous to us, to publish a weekly report of the gist of our three-local journals, a task to which I shall give my prompt co-operation, in the interest of our public welfare,

Following the order of dates of publication, find the Correio de Macao of the inst. replying to a leader of the Macaense of the 25th January, which has indulged in some praises of the late diplomatic mission of Governor Graca to Japan. The ex-Secretary to the said mission is now isked on what grounds the diplomatic mission referred to can be brought forward as a defence of the Minister therein engaged, public opinion having always condemned both the mission and the so-called diplomatist. Two arguments are brought forward against the mission:—the inopportune recognition of a Minister whose nomination was about to expire with his term of service as Governor of Macao, and his presumptive incompetence in diplomacy arising from his character as an infantry officer in the army. A few facts are adduced in suppose of the latter assertion, such as the sickening adulation His Excellency so delighted in lavishing on other foreign ministers, as well as his ultrarabid Anglo-phobism. Some grievances of the attaches to the mission are exposed in their true colours, such as the compulsory payment one of them is still making to the Treasury in order to repay a loan he was compelled to contract whilst in the employ of the Embassy, the Minister refusing to allow him three dollars a day for his boarding and lodging at the Hotel, after having previously authorized him to live there. The threats made by the noble Minister to imprison his attache for pretending to withare also mentioned, and a thousand other precious day, would simply tell the unvarnished truth and shame the devil

In a sub-leader, the same paper, whilst criticising the repeated demands of the Colonial Secretary for a legal declaration of the person or persons asserted to have been speculating with the remittance of articles from Timor to the Lisbon Museum, refuses point-blank to make such a declaration, on the plea that in its previous number a sufficient declaration had been made to satisfy all legal purposes. The Independente has been lately publishing It is estimated that 150,000 persons yesterday | a series of very judicious remarks on the organvisited the Palais Bourbon, where the body of isation of several branches of colonial administration, and in its last number of the 31st The Pais denies that Gambetta's death will ultimo proceeded with the exposition of our available to the parliamentary committee which has been formed in Lisbon for studying the best of administration which is a bane to the welfare of the Portuguese Colonies in Africa, Asia and Polynesia. The following remarks in its leader last week are worthy of note:-"All those who have resided in the colonies are well aware of what are, with rare exceptions, the provincial and district governors. As they are ignorant of law, they substitute their own will for right, the former faculty scarcely being governed by a competent education; as military officers of the old school, if they can boast of having had any schooling at all, they overlook the precepts that rule our civil relations in society, and they barely give orders in the style of army enactments; being invested with full powers, they advance towards despotism and delight in oppression : capricious and tenacious in office. they slight justice and fortify themselves with the shield of private confidence, without paying any attention to the dignity and the credit of their subordinates. There is only one power which being prudently and energetically exerit is the judicial power. When this power ceases to maintain itself in all its independence, when it degenerates into mere subscrviency, let every one fly from the Portuguese colonies, because from that moment all our constitutional guarantees shall have entirely disappeared." The last number of the Macaense of the 1st inst. contains some important remarks on the style the Chinese authorities adopted when receiving Portuguese ambassadors of old. A document is quoted from Llungstedt, the celebrated historian of Macao, showing how the Chinese Government implicitly recognised Portuguese sovereignty in Macao, Some further light is thrown on the same debateable topic by the translation of an article on the Portuguese, by. the North China Daily News of Shanghal, and the Daily Press of the 24th ult. As both the Macaense and the Independente | As only a limited number has been printed, of this week have not yet appeared, I have obtained the most important information. At articles. In my next I shall dwell on the subleast four prosecutions for perjury will follow. Jects discussed by them on this date.

"TENNYSON'S AWFUL PLAY,"

'Mr. Smalley writes to the New York Tribune of the damnation of Tehnyson's awful play :

"When Eva asks Edgar to marry her he re-plies that marriage is a feeble institution, which will pass away with priestcraft into the abyss: that nature's lesson is the true one, under whose law the birds pair mercily for the season, and part not less merrily when the season is over. The brutality of such a speech from a lover to his mistress brought a storm about his ears. The pit had for some time shown signs of impatience, and after this broke out into loud protests. The unhappy Edgar none the less had to proceed with a still more unlucky speech. "Marriage in itself! Well, when the great democratic deluge, which is slowly coming upon us and all Europe, shall have washed away thrones and churches, maks, conditions and customs-marriage, one of the most senseless among the rest-why, then, the man and the woman, being free to follow their 'elective affinities,' will each bid the old bond farewell not with tears, but with smiles, not with mutua recrimination, but with mutual good wishes, with no dread of the world's gossip, and no necessity for concealment; and the children-well, the State will bring up the children."

"A shout of derision greeted the last sentence, and it is probable that nothing could then have saved the play. Discussions about the influence of heredity upon himself, and qualifications from the Republic of Plato did not help matters. The laughter became infectious and general, and ad their baptism of fire, sacramentally ad what was worse, it was the pathetic speeches, or ministered by the Governor of Macao when he | the speeches meant to be pathetic, at which the laugh was most frequent. Every note touched: was a false one. When Edgar meets Dora in the second act, he justifies his sudden fancy for her by her resemblance to his old love, Eva, and in one of those perilous soliloquies with which his piece is stuffed, advances to the footlights and remarks: "Surely, I must have loved Eva more than I knew-poor, dead Eva, drowned through me, but to make amends, I will wed Miss Dora if possible."

"The bouse saluted this solemn declaration with shricks of laughter. New and original beyond dispute is the notion that a lover who ruins one sister in the first act is to make amends by marrying the other in the second. Down to this point the pit, though uproarious enough, had put some sort of curb on its license, out of just respect, letius hope, to the great name and great age of Mr. Tennyson. But from this moment the scene became an orgie. Of all means of damning a play, none is so fatal and so pitiless as that which is known as guying it."
